

2020 CENSUS PROFILE

Johnson County, Kansas

In 2020, Johnson County, Kansas, remained the second most populous county in the nine-county MARC Region with 609,863 persons, which also makes it the largest county in the state of Kansas. Representing 29% of the region's total population, Johnson County grew by 12 percent from 2010. The county consistently exhibits strong growth, generating a population that is up nearly 325% since 1960.

Johnson County added 65,684 persons during the decade, the most of any county in the region. This was due to a natural increase (births over deaths) of 33,207 residents and a net in-migration of 32,477 persons.

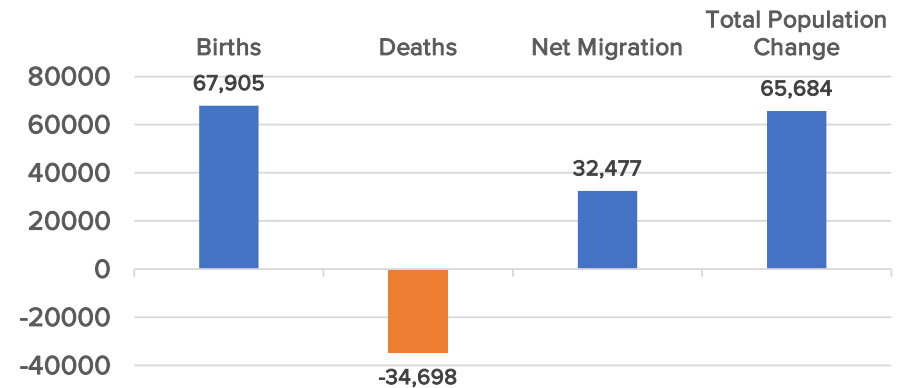

Population change by race and ethnicity mirrors the region's trend with most (78%) of the county's growth due to increases in persons of color. Persons of color saw their share of the county's population increase from approximately 22% in 2010 to approximately 25% in 2020.

The largest increases in population by race and ethnicity were experienced by individuals who identified as two or more races, Hispanic, white alone, and Asian and Pacific Islander alone.
